Fol. 16 in. Without place, printer's name or date. Semi-gothic letter, without printed signatures, numeration or catchwords; 2 columns, 51 lines, 8 woodcut diagrams in the text.

Collation: a-n¹⁰, o¹²; 142 leaves (1-142).

Leaf 142b blank.

Initial letters very tastefully painted. The catchwords are written by the binder at the inner corner of the last page of each gathering, ms. signatures are still visible and many leaves are untouched in the cutting. This copy, Pymme, with his book-plate.

Hain *9270, Panzer i. 74, Proctor 227.

*. * Ascribed to Johann Mentelin by Hain, Panzer, Braun, Proctor, and other bibliographers. The type is a peculiar semi-gothic. The capitals are almost roman in shape. So little is known as yet about Mentelin's types that I prefer leaving this book under his name although the resemblance to certain books usually ascribed to him is by no means striking. Blank spaces are left for Greek quotations and for astronomical and geometrical figures all of which are neatly filled in in the present copy.

— [Another copy.]

Collation: as in former entry, except:—

Leaf 142a col. 2, line 43 ut vis morbi ignis ardore sicceatur. | Explicit Liber Ethimo | logiarvm Isidori Ispa | lensis Episcopi. |

Initial letters rather rudely painted. Very tall copy, with ms. signatures in some cases left on and many leaves untouched by the knife. It shows that g 1 and g 10, n 2 and n 9 were cancelled leaves. The short leaves corresponding to them are found following these leaves.

* * There are two issues of this edition, described by Hain *8553, and *8554. It is to the second of these that the present example belongs. They may be readily distinguished from the opening words of the introduction, which in the first named reads [O]mnib⁹ ecclesiasticis ordinis deuotis | . . . whilst in the second we find [O]mnes christiane religionis homi- | nes. . . . The introduction is entirely different in the two issues, but in addition to that Van Praet (i. 272) states that in the last 139 leaves of the second volume there are such considerable differences that indicate these leaves having been reprinted as well. There are about a dozen copies known printed on vellum.JEROME, Saint. Epistolae, cum praefatione J. Andreae.

* * * Judah Hadassi (or Hedessi) was a Qaraite and wrote this work at Constantinople in 1148. It consists of an elaborate commentary on the Decalogue, intended as a theological treatise against the Rabbanites, or orthodox Jews. This is the only printed edition of the work, and it is defective in omitting (no doubt owing to the Russian censorship) the anti-Christian passages, which are found in the mss. at Oxford, Leiden and Vienna.

Campbell *1059, Proctor 9116.

* This is the second or probably the third edition of Juvenal and appears to be a reprint of that of Richardus Palmel, which edition according to Campbell may be placed about 1497. Both editions contain the same number of leaves, lines, and signatures, but the device on Jacobus of Breda's and the type are very distinctive features.

— Help in time of Need, from the God of Help. | To The People of the (so called) Church of Scotland, especially the once | more zealous and professing, who have so shamefully degene- | rated and declined from that which their Fathers the Primitive | Protestants attained unto; yea, and from what they have but | of late themselves, so zealously asserted and maintained to be | the cause and work of God, which now they have generally | shrunk from, the most part actively complying and concurring to | the building up again and healing of old Babylon, that, even by | themselves so called, and runing into the excess of ryot with | the prophane world, (like the Dog returning to the vomit, and | the Sow to the puddle, after the being once washed) others be- | ing lying by, and cowardly bowing under, and giving up

them- | selves to a detestable neutralitie, which they in express termes | vowed against to the most high God, not daring to bear a testi- | mony by their sufferings (plentiful occasion being given) for | that, they, when having power made others suffer, who would | not concur with them; and all of them (almost) joyning toge- | ther, as a common enemy against the work and glorious appea- | rance of God, brought and more abundantly bringing forth, | among his people called in derision Quakers, by the Ismaels of | this Generation, who mock at, and persecute the true Heirs of | the promise, as ever it hath so been from the foundation of the | World. | Being certain particulars very weighty, and of great concernment for them | to consider seriously, for their Souls good, directed unto them, by a true | lover of their welfare and prosperity both temporal and eternal, a mour- | ner over them in this time of their great calamity and distress, who hath oft | poured forth his soul before God on their behalf, that they might be saved, | one of their brethren according to the flesh, and a true Protestant & friend | to the good Old Cause against Babylon in whatsoever appearance. | Writ by George Keith Prisoner for the Truth in Aberdein | in the latter end of the year 1664. | Isa. 51. 18, 19, 20, 23. — The Light of Truth | Triumphant | Over Darkness and Ignorance, | Error and envy. | Manifested in Robert Gordons late preten- | ded testimony to the true Saviour. | Wherein every one whose eye is open may see his Seat; And | who have Salt in themselves may savour his words, work and Spirit | and discern his deceitful dealing by smitting the innocent in secret, | yet not with that subtilty which is able to cover in this day wherein | Light is manifesting the works of darkness. | So, | The Devil was here deficient | But | Envy slays the foolish man. | Given forthe in the 2 Moneth 1670. Fol. 16 in. Without place, printer's name or date. Semi-gothic letter, without printed signatures, numeration or catchwords; 2 columns, 51 lines, 8 woodcut diagrams in the text.

Collation: a-n¹⁰, o¹²; 142 leaves (1-142).

Leaf 1 blank.

Leaf 2a col. 1. Incipit Epistola Isidori Iv | nioris Hispalensis Episcopi | pi Ad Braulionem Cesar Av | gystanvm Episcopvm. | . . .

Leaf 142a col. 2, line 43 ut vis morbi ignis ardore siccetur. |

Leaf 142b blank.

Initial letters very tastefully painted. The catchwords are written by the binder at the inner corner of the last page of each gathering, ms. signatures are still visible and many leaves are untouched in the cutting. This copy, Pymme, with his book-plate.

Hain *9270, Panzer 1. 74, Proctor 227.

* Ascribed to Johann Mentelin by Hain, Panzer, Braun, Proctor, and other bibliographers. The type is a peculiar semi-gothic. The capitals are almost roman in shape. So little is known as yet about Mentelin's types that I prefer leaving this book under his name although the resemblance to certain books usually ascribed to him is by no means striking. Blank spaces are left for Greek quotations and for astronomical and geometrical figures all of which are neatly filled in in the present copy.

— [Another copy.]

Collation: as in former entry, except:—

Leaf 142a col. 2, line 43 ut vis morbi ignis ardore siccetur. |

Explicit Liber Ethimo | logiarvm Isidori Ispa | lensis Episcopi. |

Initial letters rather rudely painted. Very tall copy, with

ms. signatures in some cases left on and many leaves untouched by the knife. It shows that g 1 and g 10, n 2 and n 9 were cancelled leaves. The short leaves corresponding to them are found following these leaves.

Hain *8554, Panzer II. 120, Van Praet I. 271, no. 377, Proctor 92.

* * There are two issues of this edition, described by Hain *8553, and *8554. It is to the second of these that the present example belongs. They may be readily distinguished from the opening words of the introduction, which in the first named reads [O]m[n]ib[us] ecclesiasticis ordinis deuotis | . . . whilst in the second we find [O]mnes christiane religionis homi- | nes. . . . The introduction is entirely different in the two issues, but in addition to that Van Praet (I. 272) states that in the last 139 leaves of the second volume there are such considerable differences that indicate these leaves having been reprinted as well. There are about a dozen copies known printed on vellum.

• Judah Hadassi (or Hedessi) was a Qaraite and wrote this work at Constantinople in 1148. It consists of an elaborate commentary on the Decalogue, intended as a theological treatise against the Rabbanites, or orthodox Jews. This is the only printed edition of the work, and it is defective in omitting (no doubt owing to the Russian censorship) the anti-Christian passages, which are found in the mss. at Oxford, Leiden and Vienna.
